GREAT STRIKE
IS IMMINENT

Order To Trainmen on Eastern Roads is Ready For the Issuance.

WERE TO WAIT UNTIL TO-DAY

In Hope That Conference at Washington May Influence Employers.

New York, July 14.—Whether a strike of upwards of 80,000 conductors and trainmen on forty-five eastern railroads shall be declared within the next few days depends on whether the railroads recede from their present position and withdraw from their refusal to arbitrate the wage and other differences between the companies and the men.

This declaration was made last night in statements by the train-men's representatives after the grievance committees of employes
from the various roads, in conference here, had ratified the strike vote recently taken and had authorized A. B. Garretson, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors and W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Train-men, to issue the formal strike order of their respective organizations.

THAT ANNOYING SLIP,

The Little Certificate of Registration, Must Be Found.

The secret ballot always has been a nuisance to voters, even the most intelligent of them having often to apply to the election clerks to tell them how they must use the ballot at the polls. Now that the primary election is a law the registration certificate brings more trouble. The Assistant Attorney General of Kentucky has had the question asked him
so often about the certificate of registration being presented when a man goes to the polls to cast his ballot at the August primary, that he advises all holding certificates to carry them to the polls on that day to be on the safe side. The law says that the registration books shall be used by the officers. Then what is the use of presenting the certificate, when the book shows that the certificate was issued? You had better begin a search for the little piece of paper now.

Union Gunboat Found.

A portion of an old gunboat which was sunk by batteries from Fort Donelson in 1862 was raised last week by workmen excavating for a dam near Dover. The wreck had been located by divers, and while the fifty years in the waters of the Cumberland had decomposed and rotted the woodwork greatly, a number of small articles, such as kitchen utensils, crockery, etc., were found.

A number of old citizens of that place have a distinct recollection of the sinking of this vessel, which was one of the gunboat fleet which steamed up the Cumberland river in the winter of 1861-62 to effect the fall of Fort Donelson.

CONTRACTORS
GETTING BUSY

Plans and Specifications All Approved and Bids Called For.

THE JENNIE STUART HOSPITAL

Sealed Proposals to Be Opened
By Trustees on July 23.

The plans and specifications of the Jennie Stuart Memorial Hospital
are now in the hands of contractors, who are preparing their bids according to designs and specifications prepared by Murphy Brothers, of Louisville.

Mr. W. A. Long, one of the trustees, says the trustees have a copy of what was given to the bidders,
and the time for opening and inspecting their offers will be on Wednesday, July 23, and the lowest and best bidder, (should he be within the amount of the fund in the hands of the trustees) will be awarded the contract for erecting the building.

Of course the beginning of work
on the building will be commenced as soon as the contract is let, but should all bids be in excess of the funds in the hands of the trustees, then other plans will have to be gotten up and the building of the hospital will be necessarily delayed, probably until spring. It all depends on the contractors keeping within a certain limit.

There is but little probability of the contractors overshooting the mark, as the architects are familiar with prices of building material and the wage scale in Kentucky, and they were charged by the trustees
to keep within a figure that builders could afford to estimate on, and at the same time erect a building in every way modern and adapted to the uses intended.

Ben Rinehart Killed.

Tom Trice shot and almost instantly killed Ben Rinehart at Woodlawn, nine miles west of Clarksville, Saturday, the tragedy taking place at the Rinehart home. Trice boarded in the Rinehart home, and it is said he was preparing to leave and the dispute which ended in the tragedy, came up over a settlement of their accounts.

Rinehart was about 50 years old and was well known throughout Montgomery county. A few years ago he got into a difficulty at a public gathering at New Providence and shot Joe Gerhart, a prominent citizen, inflicting serious wounds in the latter's neck and hand.

SOME ROYAL BRED COLTS

Several Local Breeders Are Interested In The Shipment.

Williams & Radford now have in their stables near the city a bunch of eleven fine colts, and fillies, yearlings,
to be shipped to Saratoga, N. Y., the latter part of this month and offered for sale August 4 or a day or two later.

They are all by Cyclades, the fine
thoroughbred stallion owned by Williams & Radford.

Five of the bunch belong to Williams & Radford, three to Ward Claggett, two to Tom Garnett and one to Lock Humphreys.

Mr. Claggett has refused a private offer of $1,000 for one of his colts.
All the yearlings are as fine as split silk and some fancy prices are expected for some of them. Most of the owners will go along with their stock and attend the sale.

CLARKSVILLE GIRL

Wins Prize for Beauty On Other Side of the Globe.

Last December, about Christmas time, when hearts abroad turned homeward, a bunch of United States
army officers in camp near Manila, P. I., drifted into the discussion of pretty women. Some favored the Northern girl, some the dashing Western type, others the college girl of the East, but Lieut. B. H. Hiett, of this city, declared none excelled the Southern beauty.

Before the discussion was over, it was decided to send back to the four sections of the United States for photographs of young ladies between the ages of 18 and 25 years. Lieutenant Hiett was to furnish that of the Southern girl. He at once wrote a friend in this city to send him a picture to enter the contest. Miss Louise Gill was selected and photographs of six poses were made and sent to the Philippines.

Recently Miss Gill received a letter from the judge in the contest, in which she was informed that her picture had won. The $10 raised as a prize by the officers last winter
was also enclosed.

August Smart Set.

The August Smart Set presents at the top of its table of contents, as its most striking feature of the month, a story by Julius Grinnell Furthman called "The Inn of Youth," which pictures middle-class American family life in a quite unusual manner. It is a story of some of the grimmer phases of the relations between father and son, unrelieved
by much sentiment. The whole action occurs between the dinner hour and bedtime. There are a great many families who will recognize themselves in this story, although few magazines probably would publish a story of domestic conditions
treated in just this way.

YOUNG MAN'S
TRAGIC DEATH

In a Fit of Despondency Ends
His Own Life With Pistol.

EARLY SATURDAY MORNING.

Laid To Rest In Riverside
Cemetery---Aged 37
Years.

William P. Winfree, Jr., aged 37 years, one of the best known young men in the city, committed suicide about 4 o'clock Saturday morning at the residence of his father, Judge Wm. P. Winfree. He had been in bad health for several years and had lately grown very despondent. Friday night he attended a carnival here with several friends and returning home, went into his parents' room,
and told them he was feeling bad.
They did not suspect in the least that he contemplated ending his life.
Shortly before 4 o'clock a pistol shot was heard and when members of the family ran to his room, he was lying dead on the floor. Dressed in a bath robe, he had stood before a large mirror and fired a pistol bullet through his heart. Mr. Winfree was the oldest of several brothers and was unmarried. He was associated with his father in the real estate business and the practice of law at the Hopkinsville bar, and was formerly a newspaper man, having been on the editorial staff of the old Nashville Sun, Memphis Commercial Appeal and New Orleans papers. He was a charter member of the Hopkinsville Elks Lodge.

His funeral services were held late Saturday afternoon and the remains of the genial, kind-hearted young man were laid to rest in Riverside cemetery. Many friends regret his untimely death and deeply feel for his sorrowing parents and others near to him.

WAR ON FLIES

8 Gallons Destroyed in One Day at Hospital.

A vigorous war against flies is being waged at the Western Hospital and the extinction of the pests seems probable. They have in use a dozen large cone-shaped traps, and Mr.
Ed C. Peyton, one of the men on duty at the institution, is responsible for the report that in one day
8 gallons of flies were destroyed.

Killed By Accident.

Mr. J. K. Edwards, of Stowers, Simpson county, was instantly killed when he fell from a wagon which he was driving and broke his neck.
Some time later the team of mules
was caught running at a fast speed
by some neighbors, who, going on up the road, found the aged man by the roadside lifeless. He was 90 years of age, and was a prominent merchant and farmer, and one of the best known men in his vicinity.

Rid Your Children of Worms.

You can change fretful, ill-tempered children into healthy, happy youngsters, by ridding them of worms. Tossing, rolling, grinding of teeth, crying out while asleep, accompanied with intense thirst, pains in the stomach and bowels, feverishness and bad breath, are symptoms that indicate worms. Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, expels the worms, regulates the bowels, restores your children to health and happiness. Mrs. J. A. Brislin, of Elgin, Ill., says: "I have used Kickapoo Worm Killer for years, and entirely rid my children of worms. I would not be without it." Guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c. 110 Cents Dollars.

According to a late ruling of State officials, if you happen to have several hundred dollars cash in bank and list it with the Assessor, along with other personal property, and the Equalization Board comes along and "raises" you ten per cent., the cash will also be raised in like manner. Thus you will pay tax on cash you haven't got. No doubt this will be used as another good reason for tax dodging.—Hartford Herald.

About Cutting Tobacco.

Mr. Editor,
Dear Sir: Forty eight years ago I began this work of growing tobacco. After a few years I decided, or rather discovered, that there were certain days better than others for cutting tobacco in order for it to cure up nicely and have a "heavy body" and be oily and "waxy." To explain, I'll say that tobacco has a sap just as a tree, and tobacco also has at intervals an oily substance, which is its natural possession. Where the sap, or water rises in tobacco it pushes out the oil through the pores of the leaves on the principle that oil and sap won't mix, and tobacco cut in this state will be light and "chaffy," when cured. From the fact that sap pushes the oil out of tobacco is why it is so "gummy" at certain times and will barely stain your hands at other times.

But cut tobacco when full of oil and it will cure up nicely and have a "heavy body" and be oily and "waxy." When tobacco is full of oil it can not evaporate as sap does in curing, therefore the tobacco is compelled to be rich and heavy.

Farmers have experienced cutting tobacco one week and do well with it, and then again the next week and off of the same ground and have altogether different luck. If any of the farmers will write and send stamp for reply, I will be pleased to write to them upon this matter.

Yours truly,
Daniel V. Davis,
Mocksville, N. C., R. F. D. 3.

Correct Dress of United States Senators.

Washington, July 11.—The members of the Senate who have been appearing daily in summer apparel, including linen suits, pongee suits, silk suits, mohair and seersuckers, some of them are not too natty in fit have learned from Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, the arbiter elegantiarum of the August assembly, just what constitutes the absolutely correct negligee for a United States Senator. It was the first time Senator Lewis had discarded his formal morning greys and browns. Here is what he wore: Blue coat with white penstripe, blue tie with white duck figured waistcoat, white duck trousers, white silk socks, white silk gloves, white shoes. Crowning it all with a yellow Panama hat with a draped band of black silk.

A Blind Stenographer.

Miss Hattie Jones, of Columbus, O., who lost her eyesight eight years ago, is able to continue her work as a stenographer, after education for the blind. The girl employs a dot system which originated in France. She uses a small metal board with holes in it, which is placed over a white sheet of paper. With a small awl she punches holes or dashes into the spaces on the paper, using a code for the blind. Then, reversing the paper, Miss Jones runs her fingers over the upraised punches, reads the message, writes it out on the typewriter and places it on her employer's desk. LEFT YOUNG MAN TO SLEEP

Partly Bluff and Partly Wisdom of His Superior Enables Youthful Attache to Enjoy Rest.

The great success that Lord Stratford de Redcliffe, the English diplomat, achieved in his career was, in a large measure, due to his extraordinary vigor and energy. Moreover, he expected the young attaches connected with his embassy to display an equal endurance and capacity for work. Apropos of this, Lord Stratford and Meer recalls an amusing incident from the days when Sir John Hay, as attache to the British embassy at Constantinople, was under Lord Stratford.

The ambassador enforced a rigorous discipline upon his subordinates, and through his strength of will and character obtained complete obedience. But with the arrival at the embassy of Sir John Hay, he met an attache who had a will as strong as his own.

On the day after his arrival Hay was detailed to help Lord Stratford finish some pressing work. They began at eight o'clock. With a few short interruptions for meals, they worked steadily, until two o'clock of the following afternoon.

Only then did Lord Stratford remember that neither of them had slept for over thirty hours. "Lie down and take a nap," he told his assistant. Then he added, "I'll have you called in a little while, and we will continue."

Hay had not complained during the thirty hours of work, and he kept silent now, although there was a dangerous glint in his eye. He went to his bedchamber, and in the presence of his servant took a pistol from his portmanteau, and placed it beneath his pillow.

"I will certainly shoot any one who attempts to waken me before six tomorrow morning," he announced, quietly. Then he went to sleep.

It was not long before the indefatigable Lord Stratford was ready to resume work, and he sent for Hay. "He's in bed," Hay's servant reported.

"Tell him I'm ready," "Forgive me, your excellency, but he would shoot me!" "What?" asked Lord Stratford, in astonishment.

"He said before he went to sleep that he would shoot whoever wakened him before six tomorrow morning."

Lord Stratford fumed, and vowed that the young attache should be sent home immediately. But before six o'clock arrived he had fully forgiven Hay, and had admitted his own fault in attempting to drive young men at a pace that no one but himself could endure.—Youth's Companion.

Traveled to Throne in Disguise.

A ruler who journeyed to the scene of his inauguration in disguise was the king of Roumania. Prince Charles Hohenzollern traveled to Bucharest in 1866 in defiance of the powers, when war between Prussia and Austria was imminent. In Switzerland he had a passport made out in the name of "Karl Hettingen," going to Odessa on business, with a special note recording that Herr Hettingen were spectacles. At the Austrian frontier a customs official demanded his name, and the prince had forgotten it. Happily Councillor von Werner, who accompanied him, had the presence of mind to create a diversion by insisting upon paying duty for some cigars, and meanwhile the prince consulted his passport. So he proceeded safely on his second-class journey.

Man in the Kitchen.

Now and then a man will get it into his head that he can cook, but if he does he is apt to make some funny slipover that is likely to disillusion him. In a case that came to the writer's attention the other day the man was getting on swimmingly until he got to preparing buckwheat pancakes. He put the yeast or starter in at night all right, but in the morning, instead of toning the batter up with a pinch of saleratus (sodium carbonate), he got hold of a fancy package of sodium phosphate and didn't notice till the fourth morning that farther down on the package directions were given for the use of it as a special stomach tonic and regulator. It will be some time before this "cheb" will dare to look a pancake in the face.—Topeka State Journal.

Figures on Cost of War.

Professor Riesser, a well-known German economist, reckons that if war broke out between France and Germany each country during the first six weeks of hostilities would have to lay hands on $200,000,000 to cover the cost of mobilization and to support their armies in the field. Private interests would also make a sudden demand for gold. In Germany at least $250,000,000 would be required to finance war contracts, and a further $60,000,000 by the business world to meet "anxiety calls," that is, demands due to sudden cancelling of credit and calling in of loans and mortgages.

Improved Light for Motor Cars.

An arrangement has been devised in England to reflect the light of motor cars as they turn corners, so as to give ample light by which the motorists can see possible obstructions and at the same time to indicate by the direction of the light the way the car proposes to turn. It consists of a flat vertical reflector fixed in front of the lamp on swivels, with two studs to secure it to the door and connected with the steering gear, so as to move with the steering.

MAKING the ZONE HEALTHFUL

E.W. PICKARD

Ancon, C. Z.—All the world gives to Col. W. C. Gorgas, chief sanitary officer, and his assistants full credit for the wonderful work they have accomplished in making the Panama canal zone healthful and keeping it so. All the world that knows gives equal credit to those American, Italian and English doctors and soldiers who sacrificed their health and in some cases their lives to prove that yellow fever and malaria, the two terrors of tropic America, are transmitted by the bite of mosquitoes. It is not my intention to tell over again the latter story. The devotion of those brave men actually made possible the building of the Panama canal, for their work has been taken full advantage of by Colonel Gorgas and his forces, and the zone is now one of the most healthful places in the world.

Before the coming of the Americans the isthmus was a veritable pest hole. The French canal builders and their workmen and the laborers on the Panama railway died like flies, usually of malaria or yellow fever. Today a fatal case of malaria is a rarity, the more malignant form being almost unknown, and not a single case of yellow fever has originated in the zone in several years.

The Stegomyia mosquito, the yellow fever bearer, has not been exceedingly hard to exterminate because it breeds and lives only near human habitations. When the Americans had substituted a regular water system and underground sewers for the rain water barrels and the open ditches in Colon, Panama and the other towns, and had fumigated all the dwellings, Stegomyia was practically extinct. That job of fumigating, by the way, raised a great row among the ignorant inhabitants of Panama. They could not understand why they should be all moved out into the street and their houses filled with evil-smelling fumes, and they were inclined to offer forcible resistance until the zone police took the matter in hand.

Much more difficult has been the task of eradicating malaria, for the Anopheles mosquito, which makes a specialty of carrying this disease, is widespread and of several varieties. It is the female only that bites, and she needs blood—preferably red blood—for the development of her eggs. The eggs are deposited in a slow moving or stationary water and hatch out into little larvae or "wigglers." At least once in two minutes the larva must come to the surface to breathe, and that is where the sanitary department gets it, usually.

As one wanders about the zone he sees at the headwaters of every stream, ditch or other water course, at frequent intervals along its banks, and at the edge of every pool, a big tin can or a keg. From this receptacle there is a constant drip, drip, drip of larvae, a black, oily-looking compound of crude carbolic acid, caustic soda and resin. This spreads out over the water, an iridescent film, and when little Anopheles larva comes up for air he meets a swift death. To replenish these cans of larvicide a small army of Jamaicans is kept traveling about the zone, and others go around with tanks of the compound strapped on their backs, spraying every pool they come to.

Another measure of extermination has been the draining and filling in of swampy ground and the straightening and clearing of water courses so that their flow will be too swift for Madame Anopheles. The work of draining and filling has been extensive and near the Pacific end of the canal has resulted in the reclamation of large tracts of land for building sites. The third part of the anti-mosquito campaign is the careful screening of buildings occupied by human beings. Ordinary mosquito netting would not do and only copper wire will stand the climate there. Consequently a fine meshed copper screening is used. If any Anopheles escape the larvicide and succeed in gaining entrance to a habitation, the mosquito-killers are summoned and seldom fail to get them. Nine days must elapse after a mosquito has bitten a malarious person before it becomes infectious, and this gives the mosquito brigade plenty of time to kill the insects while they are asleep on the walls. The isolation of infected persons in the hospitals helps a lot, for of course the mosquito cannot carry malaria until it has bitten a malarious person.

Rats, that carry the bubonic plague, and flies, that transmit various other diseases, have received adequate attention from the sanitary department, and dumb brutes are not neglected. As an instance of the latter fact, every horse and mule in the zone must be placed at night in one of a series of corrals established by the department and there it is fed and cared for, the owner paying a reasonable fixed charge for the service. These animals, if left out, often are attacked by a disease that is infectious and may be transmitted to human beings. Besides that, the native cannot be persuaded to keep his stable in sanitary condition.

Many other sanitary regulations are imposed on the people of the isthmus. All garbage must be deposited in receptacles to be collected by the department's wagons and burned in its crematories. Chickens may not be kept within a certain distance of any dwelling. Rain water may not be gathered and kept in open receptacles. That last rule is not easy to enforce, for the Panamanian prefers rain water for drinking purposes. But all these are for the general good, and the United States has the treaty right to attend to the sanitation of Panama and Colon as well as of the zone.

In addition to the two great hospitals at Ancon and Colon, the department of sanitation maintains a dispensary with physician and nurse at every town along the route of the canal and at Porto Bello, where the commission has a big stone quarry. The larger hospital, on Ancon hill, close to Panama, in the spring of the year had about 900 patients. Its wards and the residences of the physicians and nurses are scattered picturesquely though rather inconveniently on the east and north slopes of the beautiful hill, and the grounds are filled with magnificent trees and lovely flowering vines and bushes. A little further around the hill is the hospital for the insane, and it, too, is well filled, for the Jamaican and Bahamian negroes go crazy at the slightest provocation.

In Colon, stretching along the seashore in the only pretty part of that flat city, is the other hospital, smaller but no less efficient and well manned than that at Ancon. Its grounds are swept continually by the refreshing winds from the Atlantic and many of its wards are built out over the water. Both hospitals are served by corps of physicians and surgeons, mostly rather young, but able, ambitious and studious.

One mighty good thing the French company did was to establish a sanitarium on Taboga Island, and the Americans, recognizing its value, promptly reopened it for the benefit of white convalescents. These may remain on the pretty island for two weeks, paying $2 a day for room, board and medical attention.

Taboga lies twelve miles due south of Panama and is as attractive a tropical isle as one will often see. Its curving white beaches in little bays are ideal bathing places; its lofty hills, clad with dense vegetation, afford occupation for the climber, and the small fishing village of Taboga is ancient and not uninteresting. Gorgeous birds and flowers and luscious fruits are everywhere. Nothing more perfectly beautiful can be imagined than an evening on the grassy slopes of the sanitarium grounds. A myriad stars glitter overhead, the Southern Cross and Canopus swinging above the southern horizon. In the forest night birds sing and a variety of tree locust sends forth a clear, musical note that can be heard a mile. In the little public square of the village the native women and children are laughing and singing as the men set forth on all-night fishing trips. And off to the north, this side of the glow of Panama, wink the light buoys of the canal's sea channel.

If in later years Taboga does not become a favorite winter resort for wealthy Americans, I shall miss my guess.

MURDER TRIAL FOR CAYCE

Under Arrest at Terra Haute
Awaiting The Sheriff.

On the 23d of May last two young negroes got into a difficulty which resulted in John Cayce knocking Otto Long in the head with a baseball bat. Cayce made his escape and Long died about a month afterwards.

Nothing had been heard of Cayce until yesterday morning when Chief of Police Roper received information from Terra Haute, Ind., that Cayce had been arrested and was being held a prisoner on information from the police department of Indianapolis.

Sheriff Johnson or one of his deputies left yesterday for Terra Haute and will bring Cayce here to be tried on a charge of murder. Cayce had expressed his willingness to come without requisition papers being issued.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

BOISTEROUS NEGROES

Were Overtaken By Officers In Auto And Locked Up Saturday Night.

FOUR CHARGES AGAINST THEM

South Main Street Was Crowded When The Trouble Began.

Two negroes were arrested last Saturday night for attempting to terrorize the people on South Main street, but they didn't succeed very well. The negroes are Beaumont Blaine and Ed McNeal, of Lafayette. The negroes passed two nights in the lock-up, and were arraigned in the city court yesterday morning on four charges, disturbing the peace, shooting in the city limits, cruelty to an animal and drunkenness.

About 10:45 o'clock, as the crowd from the carnival grounds had reached Main street, the two negroes arrested later, as we are told, began their trouble but were stopped by a special policeman on their promise to go home quietly. They had gotten nearly to Seventeenth street when they began yelling and firing a pistol. John Thomas had gone out into the yard and was standing near his auto. He was going to run it into his garage when the boisterous negroes passed. Mr. Thomas told his next door neighbor, Col. J. H. Henry, to telephone the police that he would come down after them if they would go with him in his auto and arrest them. The policemen, Walker, Anderson and Morris, were only too anxious to make the rub. Mr. Thomas, after the officers got into the auto, started out South Main, gradually speeding up and finally turning on the full power of the machine. The negroes were taken just in front of Mr. Wiley's new residence, this side of the bridge on the Cox Mill road. The distance covered was about two miles.

In the buggy was found a pistol with four empty chambers, but one of the negroes had a lot of empty shells of another calibre, and it is thought that he threw the pistol in the bushes when he realized that he was about to be arrested.

One negro was brought to town in the buggy and the other in the auto. They told conflicting stories coming into town, as the officers very wisely kept them from getting up a story between them.

Beaumont got $21 for disorderly conduct. McNeal will be tried today on several charges.

Victim of Tuberculosis

Grover Foster, son of Mr. J. C. Foster, died Sunday at his home near Dogwood Chapel, after an illness of several months of tuberculosis. He was about twenty-one years old. The interment took place in the family burying ground yesterday.

Miss Jennie's Full Name

Miss Jennie West's petition gives her full name as "Nancy Jane West" and some of her friends scarcely recognized her by that name in the printed list. As County School Superintendent and in all business matters she has always used the name by which everybody knows her.

Matters in Mexico

Excesses of various kinds, including assaults on girls and married women, are charged against soldiers under Gen. Pancho Villa, rebel commander, who two weeks ago captured Casa Grande, according to accounts given by Mexican refugees arriving at El Paso.

Made $150,000

The New York syndicate that recently purchased the $100,000,000 of Tennessee bonds cleared $150,000 on the transaction. The purchasing syndicate, it was stated, has disposed of the entire lot at 99½ cents, cleaning up the profit above indicated.

SEARCH SAND FOR SCARABS

"Sifting" Parties of English Girls Occasionally Find Trifles of Artistic Worth in Egypt.

There are several hundred English girls in Cairo and lower Egypt engaged by the Egyptian government as teachers in the system of native education that has been developed within the last five years. These women live together in colonies, and outside of working hours they find a great deal to interest them in the strange country.

One of their chief recreations is the "sifting" picnic. It is like any other picnic, except that it is held in the desert near the scene of some scientific excavation, with which the vicinity of Cairo itself abounds. Also, in addition to her lunch, each girl carries a sieve.

The ancient Egyptians were nowhere so luxurious as in their decorations of the trappings of their dead. The vicinity of scientific explorations and excavations is fertile of scarabs and other roughly cut ornaments.

It is not unusual for a picnicking teacher to sift a pint or two of rude ornaments out of the sand, on these "sifting" picnics. And, while most of the finds are of little intrinsic value, occasionally some rare trifle of ancient art is unearthed from the desert sand.

MAKES THE BEST WATCHMAN

Metal With Peculiar Qualities Never Sleeps and May Be Relied on Not to Leave Premises.

By taking advantage of the peculiar properties of the rare metal selenium it is possible to do some great wonders. A "selenium cell," as it is called, is a means of translating light into electric current, as it were; that is, the electrical conductivity of the selenium varies with the amount of light it receives. Thus a selenium cell may be made to turn lights on at night and shut them off in the morning.

A Frenchman has now designed a burglar alarm on this principle. It is a kind of automatic "eye," which keeps on watch all night. If a burglar comes in and opens his dark lantern or even strikes a match the selenium "eye" will see the light and will cause a bell to ring in any desired place. It will also see and report a fire. Thus it can take the place of a human watchman, and it never goes to sleep. Presumably it would have to be turned off before daylight, else it would ring everybody up.—The Pathfinder.

MAKING AN IMPRESSION.

"Your long speech did not make very interesting reading," said the cruelly candid friend.

"It wasn't meant to," replied Senator Sorghum. "I try to make my speeches long enough to appear important, but not sufficiently interesting to invite criticism."

CRUELLY DECEIVED.

"You want a divorce from your husband, madam? On what ground?" "On the ground, your honor, that he made me think he was ninety years old and had heart trouble. I find out he's only seventy-two, and there isn't a thing the matter with him!"

CAPABLE WIFE.

Mrs. Housewifely—I never had a laundress who could do up white dresses as nicely as your wife does.

HIS KEY.

"They say life should be a grand, sweet song."

NOT THE SAME.

"Does that baby strike you as uncanny?"

"Well, I've noticed he's inclined to be creepy."

CANTRARIWISE.

"There is one very queer, yet usual result of a freeze-out by one party."

"What is that?"

"A roast by the other."

NEW ENGLAND GUM HUNTING

Fun in It as an Occasional Pastime, but Remuneration Insufficient for the Professional.

Not the least of the fun about the New Hampshire logging camps was the "gumming." You, of course, have to go on snowshoes, equipped with a long pole from six to nine feet long, with a galvanized square tin arranged on the end to form a cup, the edges being left very sharp to loosen the gum from the tree when it was beyond the reach of hands.

Much falls to the ground, but can be easily picked up from the snow, says the Hartford Courant. The gum is found in globules, in rifts and seams of the spruce tree, and is a highly prized as well as highly priced product. The lumbermen have little time to gather it except Sundays, but there are now many "professional gummers."

In Boston this gum brings 20 cents an ounce, and the choice, white, clear specimens bring $2 to $2.50 a pound. Thus a good gummer on good territory can easily make from $500 to $800 in a few months, although it is hard work, and very often there are days so cold and stormy that he cannot work at all. So altogether the work is not alluring from a professional standpoint, but it is good sport for a while.

AGAINST THE EDITORIAL RULE

'Reason Enough Why Missouri Editor Did Not Publish an "Original" Poem.

"That was a terrible slip of the pencil my stenographer made," said Senator Sorghum.

"In the speech you recently had printed?"

"Yes. I said I was guided by Vox Populi. She had it written 'Vox Pocketbook'!" — Washington Evening Star.

HALF-MAST HIGH.

One of the most universal of customs when a prominent man dies is the hoisting of flags on public buildings only part of the way up the flag-poles. This is known as "half-mast," but how many know what the custom means or how it originated?

To begin with this practice was a military one. Ever since flags were used in war it has been the custom to have the flag of the superior or conquering nation above that of the inferior or vanquished. When an army found itself hopelessly beaten it hauled its flag down far enough for the flag of the victors to be placed above it on the same pole. This was a token, not only of submission, but of respect. In like manner when a famous soldier died, flags were lowered not only to indicate respect to his memory, but to show that he had succumbed to the great conqueror of all, death—for whose flag space was metaphorically left at the top of the flag-staff.

GOING TOO FAR.

"That militant suffragette insists on going without food."

"Yes," replied the bystander. "Her example is very unfortunate. Some of the monopolies are doing a great deal to persuade us to eat less. But I don't see what's to be gained by teaching the public to go without food altogether."

NICE QUIET PLACE.

"Did you find a nice quiet place to spend the season?" "Yes," replied Mr. Growcher. "Everybody else in the family went away and I stayed home." — Washington Star.

ONLY MADE MATTERS WORSE

Professor's Well-Meant Apology Could Not Have Tended to Smooth the Fair Recipient.

The professor of moral philosophy, absent-minded and full of enthusiasm, came into the sitting room. "What a beautiful woman Mrs. Raymond is!" he exclaimed. "I have just had such a pleasant talk with her in the book store."

His wife looked up from her sewing. "John!" she exclaimed, "where is your collar?"

The professor of philosophy put his hand to his throat. "I must have left it at the barber shop. Yes, that's it. I went to the barber shop; then to the book store. 'Why,' he ended lamely, 'Mrs. Raymond would think it very careless of me to appear in public without my collar, wouldn't she?'"

"Rather," said his wife. "Perhaps you'd better call her up and tell her just how it happened."

"Exactly," said the professor. The professor went to his telephone.

"Hello, central, hello. Hello—is this Mrs. Raymond? Yes? Well, really, it was very stupid of me, Mrs. Raymond; but, you know, I had been thinking of something very important, and I quite forgot to put on my collar. I—oh!—ah!—goodbye."

The professor suddenly hung up the receiver. He gave utterance to a mild exclamation.

"John!" exclaimed his wife. "She says she hasn't been out of the house today," groaned the professor.

PLAN FOR RECORD BRIDGE

Astounding Project Has Been Gravely Put Forward by the San Francisco Supervisors.

Should the plans of the San Francisco supervisors be carried into execution, the longest bridge in the world will be built to span the bay separating San Francisco and Oakland. The plans call for a bridge nine and one-half miles long, supported by ten piers, placed 3,230 feet apart. The elevation above the water of the bay will be about 180 feet. It will be a three-deck structure and capable of accommodating twenty-four railroad tracks besides automobile ways and foot walks. The suspension will be on ten steel cables, twenty inches in diameter, with a tensile strength of thirty-five thousand tons and cut through the top of the piers, and planned so that should the bridge sway with the winds its decks would be kept parallel with the earth's surface. The piers are to rest on steel caissons 320 feet long, 225 feet wide, and 150 feet in height, with a weight of 80,000 tons and a buoyancy of 110,000 tons. It will be the most massive and longest bridge of its kind in the world.

No Other Newspaper in the World Gives So Much at So Low a Price.

This is a time of great events and you will want the news accurately and promptly. The Democrats, for the first time in sixteen years, will have the Presidency and they will also control both branches of Congress. The political news is sure to be of the most absorbing interest.

There is a great war in the Old World, and you may read of the extinction of the vast Turkish Empire in Europe, just as a few years ago you read how Spain lost her last foot of soil in America, after having ruled the empire of half the New World.

The World long since established a record for impartiality, and anybody can afford its Thrice-a-Week edition, which comes every other day in the week, except Sunday. It will be of particular value to you now. The Thrice-a-Week World also abounds in other strong features, serial stories, humor, markets, cartoons; in fact, everything that is to be found in a first class daily.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the Hopkinsville Kentuckian together for one year for $2.65.

SUPPLY OF RADIUM

Two-Thirds of Ore Comes From United States.

Then This Country Is Forced to Buy Abroad Valuable Product From Raw Material Bought Here—Industry to Be Developed.

Washington. — Fully two-thirds of the radium supply of the world comes from the United States, according to the bureau of mines. This discovery has just been made by officials of the bureau, who have found that large quantities of the radium-bearing ores are being shipped abroad through the foresight of foreign scientists. Although the bureau of mines has ascertained that the United States has the greatest known supply of radium-bearing ores, not one bit has been produced here. It is the intention of the bureau of mines, in view of these facts, to encourage the development of this industry, the product of which is valued at approximately $2,250,000 an ounce.

"The United States today is in the humiliating position of being forced to purchase at extravagant prices from abroad such radium as its hospitals and physicians can afford for experimental purposes, while we have been supplying the ores from which it is made," said Charles L. Parsons, chief of the division of mineral technology of the bureau.

"Several months ago rumors reached the bureau of mines that in Colorado there had been an increased demand for carnotite, the radium-carrying ore, and that this ore was being shipped abroad in considerable quantity. It was also reported that the Europeans were insisting upon only the highest grades of these ores, and that a great amount of lower grade ores was practically being wasted.

"R. B. Moore and K. L. Kithill, in charge of the Denver (Col.) laboratory, investigated these rumors and found that, while all the radium placed upon the market in the last few years had been produced in Europe, a large portion of this had come from American ores.

"The Austrian government, realizing the untold possibilities of the radium ores at St. Joachimsthal, purchased the mines. On the other hand, the United States has allowed her much greater resources to be exploited by foreigners on a basis which wastes perhaps irretrievably a large portion of the ores mined, and has exported carefully selected ores at a price by no means commensurate with its radium value.

"The discovery of radium has already changed our ideas regarding the constitution of matter, and scientific investigation will undoubtedly lead to valuable results which we cannot now even foresee. It is the purpose of the bureau of mines to encourage the development of a radium industry in the United States."

SAVINGS SYSTEM TRANSFERRED.

Postmaster General Burleson has signed an order transferring the postal savings system to the bureau of the third assistant postmaster general. The order became effective on May 1, 1913. Since the creation of the postal savings system on January 1, 1911, it has been conducted as a separate and distinct bureau under the direction of the postmaster general. The transfer of the system is deemed advisable by the postmaster general, since all other financial functions of the postal service are segregated in the bureau of the third assistant postmaster general. At the present time the postal savings system is operating in approximately 13,000 post offices, and the amount on deposit aggregates $35,000,000, exclusive of $2,500,000 which has been converted into postal savings system bonds. In the central office at Washington there are 188 employees, including the director, assistant director and four other supervisory officers. The appropriation for carrying on the business of the system for 1912 amounted to $500,000, and the appropriation for 1913 is $400,000 and the unexpended amount of the 1912 appropriation. In addition to these appropriations there is an appropriation of $229,980 for clerk hire and $105,500 for supplies and miscellaneous expenses for 1914.

UNCLE SAM'S MANY CUSTOMERS.

The department of commerce has issued a bulletin which shows that more than one hundred countries, colonies and dependencies furnish markets for American manufactures. Automobiles constitute one of the chief factors in this commerce. Such out-of-the-way places as the Canary Islands, the Dutch East Indies, French Islands of the Pacific, Portuguese possessions in Africa, Asiatic Turkey and the Balkan states purchase American-made automobiles. American aeroplanes were sold during the last year to Japan, Brazil, Russia, Panama, France, Germany, Canada, Cuba, the Philippines, Jamaica and Australia. Several million dollars' worth of American plows were exported during the last year to turn the soil of 80 foreign countries. Ninety countries import prepared breakfast foods. American candles are sent broadcast. Railway cars made in the United States are bought in many countries, including China, nearly $8,000,000 worth of these manufactures having been purchased in the last year; and lesser vehicles, including wheelbarrows, push-carts, hand-trucks and the like, find their way to 75 countries. Two million dollars' worth of celluloid products were exported to 50 countries during the year, and wood alcohol exports went to 40 countries. Seventy countries and colonies purchased $11,500,000 in American-made cotton cloth. Ten million dollars' worth of sewing machines made here were sold last year in 90 different countries, including the island of Madagascar, Central Africa, Korea and Persia. Typewriters are sent to 70 countries and cash registers to about as many.

WHY GIRLS QUIT SCHOOL.

"Why girls leave school" is the title of a bulletin issued the other day by the United States bureau of education, based on an inquiry made by its experts into trade and labor conditions among girls in Worcester, Mass.

The claim that children are forced to leave school to work because their parents need the money is repudiated by the officials of the bureau. They found that from one-half to three-fourths of the girls at work in the factories could have had further schooling if they had desired or if their parents had insisted upon it.

Various reasons were assigned by the girls for their refusal to attend school longer, according to the bureau. Some said "they did not like school;" others "could not get along with the teacher and were not promoted;" while many simply "wanted to go to work."

Only 17 per cent. of the girls questioned had finished the grammar schools, while most of them had left in the sixth and seventh grades. "Conditions such as were found," says the bulletin, "emphasize the imperative need for special training of a practical sort for girls between the ages of thirteen and fifteen. Not getting the kind of training they might have liked and would have profited by, they blindly joined the army of shifting, inefficient, discontented girls that go from one monotonous factory job to another, and because of their lack of training, rarely rise above the class of low paid, unskilled workers."

JAPANESE IN HAWAII SCHOOLS.

Of the 30,000 children enrolled in the Hawaiian public schools nearly 10,000 of them are Japanese. This information was received by the United States bureau of education in a report from Gov. Walter F. Frear of the islands. The Japanese, moreover, are increasing their attendance on the schools more rapidly than any other race, the report adds.

A notable feature of Governor Frear's report is found in the statement that the children of Americans and other Caucasian races, outside of the Portuguese, constitute only 12 per cent. of the attendance. The Portuguese enrollment in the schools is next highest to that of the Japanese, being approximately 17 per cent. of the total. The Hawaiian and part-Hawaiian children form about 29 per cent. of the whole and Chinese 11 per cent.

The cost of maintaining the schools in the territory last year was approximately $625,000. There are 151 schools of elementary grade, three industrial institutions, a normal school, a college of agriculture and mechanical arts and two high schools.

HEAD STOPS A BRICK.

William Moore, a negro, awakened the other day with a bad headache while physicians expected that he would have been occupying space in the morgue. He stopped a brick the day before after it had fallen ten stories and was travelling with the velocity of a cannon ball. When it hit Moore on the top of his head it broke into bits. Moore sat down suddenly, and apparently was a subject for the coroner.

Workmen on the building from which the brick dropped sent hurriedly for a physician. Before the doctor arrived Moore was up. "What ye want to do that for?" he demanded angrily of a workman who was bending over to catch the supposedly dying man's last words. Examination of Moore revealed that all he suffered was a headache. The brick contractor charged the brick to profit and loss.

HARPOONER GETS BIG PAY.

If a member of congress who received $7,500 a year cannot live in Washington as he and his family should and make ends meet, why doesn't he become a harpooner in the Norwegian whale fleet?

Secretary Redfield of the department of commerce, has received a report from Consul General Charles A. Holder, stationed at Christiania, Norway, showing that the average harpooner on one of the whaling vessels attached to the Norwegian fleet for five months' work receives $5,360. Incidentally, the harpooner is not worried over the patronage game, and is not required to pay the expenses in Washington of a stranded office seeker.

Saving the Day.

"A bad mess," declared the junior partner. "Lots of urgent mail to be answered and the typewriter has just left."

"The office boy is always fooling around that machine," suggested the senior partner. "Put him in now and let's see what he can do as a pinch hitter."

Mother's Tongue.

"Do you realize the power of the mother tongue?" asked the young man who professed interest in literature. "Yes, and so does father," replied the young woman.

Georgetown College

FOUNDED 1829.

A well endowed, vigorous and growing college of standard grade for young men and women who have completed a four years high school or academy course. Splendid preparatory school for those not ready for college.

Four years' standard work offered for the A. B. and B. S. degrees, which are accepted at full value in all the great universities of America. Three of the six Rhodes Scholars from Kentucky are from Georgetown.

Courses of study fundamental to notable success in all the professions offered. Our idea is general culture before specialization. Short cut methods yield commonplace results.

Ample equipment, no saloons, ideal moral environment, religious instruction and activity. Young men and women safe in Georgetown.

Certain Old School Books.
The state board urges that all old school books be sterilized and tells how it can be done to the damage of the bacteria, but not to the books. We suppose it is right. It is better that children live healthfully than that so time honored an institution as the combination school book and towel survive.—Toledo Blade.

QUEER NAMES IN CALIFORNIA

Early Settlers Gave Some of the Most Odd Designations to Streams and Lakes.

The Gazetteer of the Surface Waters of California, just issued, shows
many curious similarities in nomenclature, common and favorite names
having been given to different streams and lakes by the early settlers, who christen most of the natural features in new countries.

Such characteristic pioneer names
as Deadman creek and Deadman Canyon creek are applied to five different streams; in the area covered by the report there are ten Dry creeks, two Humbug creeks, two Jackass creeks, five Lion and Lion Canyon creeks, five "Lost" streams, and two Mad rivers. Bear, Bear canyon and Bear Trap are applied to thirty-six different water bodies, and there are five Grizzly creeks.

There are fifteen Coyote water bodies, two Wildcat, one Cat and two Gatos (cat, Spanish) creeks, one Skunk creek, nine Deer creeks, one Rabbit, two Quail, two Dog and one Scorpion creek.

There are also ten Devil, two Diablo creeks, but the saints, male and female (san and santa), cover a dozen pages of the gazetteer. There is also a Poison creek and a dozen Snake and Rattlesnake creeks. The fish are represented in a page full of Eel rivers, several Fish creeks and one Sardine creek.

FIRST HEALTH, THEN BEAUTY

The One Impossible Without the
Other, Is the Opinion of One Woman Who Should Know.

I never realized what responsibility was until on my first starring venture. For two weeks I was ill in bed. The whole company was laid off without work and without salary.
I was haunted as I lay there in bed
by visions of those men and women thrown out of work, and losing the salaries every one of them needed so badly, all because I had neglected my health. And as I tossed in pain I made a covenant with myself that,
with the grace of Providence, no actor or actress ever again should suffer pecuniary loss on my account.
That covenant has been kept. Never since have I missed a performance.

What I have done every other woman can do if she wishes. The watchword of beauty is health, and that of health, moderation and eternal vigilance. Keeping everlastingly at it is tiresome, but it brings results. There is no royal road to beauty and health, any more than there is to learning, but all three are attainable by patience.—Lillian Russell, in the Green Book Magazine.

THIS WOULD WORK ANYWAY.

"My wife," said Mr. Clarke, "sent $2 in answer to an advertisement of a sure method of getting rid of superfluous fat."

"And what did she get for the money? Was the information what she wanted?" asked Mr. Simmons.
"Well, she got a reply telling her to sell it to the soap man."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sick kidneys.

Are endorsed by thousands.
Here's Hopkinsville testimony:
Mrs. J. T. Cannon, 609 O'Neal St., Hopkinsville, Ky., says: "I have given Doan's Kidney Pills to my children at various times and have always found them beneficial. Whenever one of my children is bothered with kidney weakness, a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills relieve the attack. I can highly recommend this remedy as a cure for kidney

Small Boy, Just Entering Scholastic Career, Accumulates Several Juvenile Afflictions.

The eldest boy of the family, having reached the mature age of six,
had started upon his scholastic career.

Before he had pursued his studies
a week, however, he caught a fine case of chicken pox and had to take a temporary vacation, during which he shared his affliction with his younger brothers.

But all were well at the end of the third or fourth week, and he started to school again.

In a few days he came home with the mumps. He shared this likewise with the other juveniles of the family, and had to take another protracted vacation, but all outlived the mumps,
and in due time he went back to school as before.

All went well for about two weeks.
Then he caught the measles.
Having plenty to spare, he passed
a few of them to his little brothers.
But at last the doctor ordered the warning sign taken down from the door, and the boy was permitted to go to school once more.

"Mamma," said little Jamie as his elder brother took his books and his departure, "I wonder what Yalley'll
bring home dis time! 'Pendicittis, I bet
yuh!"

Distinction.

"Grandfather, did you ever hold any office?"

"O, yes."

"Well, what?"

"Child, I'll answer that question if you won't ask me any more."

"I won't."

"Well, long before you were born
I served several terms as prothonotary."

"What's a prothonotary?"

"You said you wouldn't ask me any more questions."

That's how one of these ancient and venerable patriarchs from Pennsylvania delights to mystify his Illinois grandchildren.—Chicago Tribune.

NOT GOOD FOR BATTLE.

Jim—Huh; yo' needn't think yo's de only coon in town. I've got myself a safety razor.

Sam—My! yo' certainly is easy.

Economy.

George Gould said, apropos of an adverse ruling of the commerce
court:

"If this sort of thing keeps on, the railroads will have to be as economical as Conductor Jay.

"As Jay went through the train taking and punching tickets, a traveler
said to him:

"What becomes of the little pieces
you punch out, conductor?"

"Oh," Jay replied, "I save them up and sell them for confetti."

Would Miss Targets.

"It's perfectly disgraceful!" she exclaimed.

"What's the matter?" inquired her husband.

"Here's a description of a woman who gets up in public and declares herself an anarchist."

"Well," was the rejoinder, "maybe it's all for the best. I believe I'd like to see women crowd the males out of the anarchist business. When they throw bombs they wouldn't be so likely to hit anybody."

That's Different.

"I have lots of money out, if I could only collect it," growled Mr. Blinks.

"Here's one man who has owed me $200 for three years. I can't get any cash out of him, and he wants me to take it out in trade."

"Well, why don't you?" demanded
Mrs. Blinks.

"I could get some benefit out of it. What business is he in?"

"He's an undertaker," replied Mr.
Blinks.

Still Optimistic.

"You seem depressed this morning, Dubbwain."

"So I am to a certain extent. Still,
there is a bright side to all our misfortunes. While it is true that I have a wife and nine children to support, and my home is mortgaged, and I haven't been able to make both ends meet in years, I at least never have any thr troubles."

Spilling Her Fun.

"But, my dear, I have no objection to your voting if you want to."

"That's just like you! You are so complacent it isn't any pleasure for me to be a suffragette."

Its Nature.

"I saw a lot of crows over a piece of meat out in the field, and from the noise they made, I judged they were swearing in crow language."

"That was it—a caw-caw."

COMPANY IN FINE SHAPE.

Companies From Hartford, Henderson and Other Points Coming.

A special train will arrive at the L. & N. station this afternoon at 5:30. It is a special train to carry Col. Jouett Henry's regiment (the 3d) to Middlesboro, where the three regiments composing the State Guard will be in camp for eight days. The train this afternoon will have the companies from Hartford, Henderson, Madisonville and Earlington. Capt. E. W. Clark has been drilling Co. D. regularly for several weeks and he is confident that the local company is in a condition to hold its reputation as the best drilled company in the regiment.

The Third Regiment Band is also in fine shape and will show up in fine shape during the encampment. The regimental officers who have not previously gone to Middlesboro to arrange for the arrival of the regiment, will go on the train this afternoon.

There will be a big crowd at the station to see the soldier boys off, and, should the train arrive on time, it will take some time for the company to entrain, thus giving an opportunity for all to have a good time before the train pulls out.

Co. D. has a full complement of men and will take its cooks and helpers with it.

Weak Cold Spells.

Wilmington, N. C. —Mrs. Cora L. Ritter, of this place, says: "I used to have headache, and blind dizzy spells, and weak cold spells went all over me. I had different doctors, but they were unable to tell me what was wrong, so I began to take Cardui. I am now all right, in good health and better than I have been for 10 years." Cardui is a remedy for women, which has been helping sick women for nearly a life time. You can absolutely rely upon it. Other people have done the testing and you should profit by their experience. Cardui has benefited a million women. Why not you? Begin taking Cardui today.

TO PROTECT WILD CREATURES

President Poincare of France Takes Determined Stand Against Slaughter of Defenseless Animals.

President Poincare of France has made it known that he does not intend to maintain the traditional shoots at Rambouillet, because he is a lover of dumb creatures, and considers that the pheasants, hares and rabbits at Rambouillet have the same right to live in peace as his own favorite cat. This extraordinary presidential initiative proves that M. Poincare possesses moral courage of the highest order, and though it may lead to some criticism, it will certainly increase the universal respect and affection already shown by the population towards the president's strong and manly personality. Even the most hardened sportsman who is not a mere butcher will allow the flavor of cruelty associated with modern battue-shooting abroad, and anybody who has been present at the great royal and presidential shooting parties in Germany, Austria and France must recognize that any man who is really fond of dumb animals, as most good sportsmen are, can scarcely watch the slaughter without a twinge of conscience. The crowd of driven deer flying in panic past the kaiser's rifle in Germany or the thousands of hares madly leaping against the final net in front of a battery of guns in Austria is a miserable sight. The Rambouillet shoots were less murderous, but nevertheless they savored too much of massacre.

MERCENARY LASS.

William D. Straight, the financier, was discussing the American bankers' recent withdrawal from the Chinese loan.

"I like China," Mr. Straight said. "My regard for China will not let me consider her from a purely selfish and commercial viewpoint. I cannot, in this matter, put myself in the position of the young lady who was asked by her chum:

"Do you think, dear, that it's better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all?"

"Why, of course it is," the young lady replied, "provided he lets you keep all his presents."

Bob Taylor Lives,

In the two bright and beautiful books just issued, "Lectures and Best Literary Productions," and "Life and Career" of Senator Robert Love Taylor, handsomely illustrated, you cannot hear again his voice or see the humorous curl of his lips, that convulsed a continent with laughter, but, within the covers of these volumes, are the pictures woven of his wondrous words, and, laughing through their sunny pages, are all of the inimitable stories which he told to the multitudes. In "Life and Career," pens of genius have traced his romantic life from its morning in "Happy Valley," through his young and rosy dreams through stress and storm, through cheering throngs, and on into the waiting shadows, loved and laurel crowned.

We expect to sell millions of these books. First edition going fast.
